

Join Us For A Dirty Talk Special Advance Video Screening and Lunch

You're invited to an advance screening of a mini documentary about pollution's growing impact, featuring some of the nonprofit Pure Earth's most compelling cleanup work, alongside insights from leading health and pollution experts from around the world. Stay for a discussion--your feedback will help shape how the video will be used to raise awareness about this crisis.

The video is part of a series of international events planned to mark the October 19 release of the landmark report from the Commission on Pollution and Health in The Lancet, the world's oldest and most prestigious health journal. The report documents the tremendous health and economic impacts of pollution globally.

Date: Wednesday, September 13th

Time: 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. * Lunch will be provided.

Where: 640 Fifth Avenue, 11th floor (Directly across from St. Patrick's Cathedral at 52nd street).

Who: CONRAD MEYER, Pure Earth Board Chair, Moderator
 GARDINER HARRIS, New York Times reporter and former Delhi bureau chief, who is featured in the video. His stories on New Delhi's air pollution, following his young son's health crisis, led to a profound change in national attitudes about the dangers of pollution.

ANGELA BERNHARDT, Pure Earth Executive Director of Communications.

RSVP: Jen at 212-870-3490 or jen@pureearth.org

Pure Earth is an international nonprofit that identifies and cleans up some of the world's worst polluted places, where toxins have devastating health effects.
